What's Your Heritage? Welsh in Wisconsin

Welsh immigrants, like the Irish, were the most easily identifiable British immigrant group in Wisconsin. The Welsh made a conscious effort to settle in rural enclaves apart from other English and American settlers. Welsh immigration occurred primarily between 1840 and 1890 with the peak years between 1850 and 1860. The earliest known Welsh settlers in Wisconsin arrived in Genesee in Waukesha county in 1840. Most Welsh became farmers and settled in the southeastern counties. The largest groupings were in southern Winnebago County, where five Welsh Churches were established; and in the eastern half of Columbia county, western Dodge county, and southern Green Lake and Marquette counties.

Cornish in Wisconsin

The Cornish were the first settlers from the British Isles to arrive in Wisconsin. Calling themselves Cornish rather than English, they came from Cornwall County in England where they worked in lead and tin mining. The opening of mines in Illinois and Wisconsin brought a stream of Cornish settlers between 1830 and 1850. In 1850, roughly 7,000 of the 28,000 English settlers in the lead region were Cornish. The lure of gold in the west and the decline of the lead industry in Wisconsin led many Cornish to leave Wisconsin in the mid-19th century. (This information was from the Wisconsin State Historical Association.)

MAY 4 & 5 COME CELEBRATE!

Most of us can't claim pure blood lines from anywhere. As cultures began to trade and travel, as clans and warring tribes moved across the continent, blood lines mixed. The best any of us can do is to try to pick out the predominate lineage in our family trees and enjoy it to the fullest extent possible.

Here is what you can do to enjoy your Welsh-ness to the fullest. You can come to Appleton to Memorial Presbyterian Church on May 4 in the afternoon to enjoy a veritable overflowing table of Welsh activities designed for the whole family to enjoy. There will be workshops on genealogy and Welsh heritage; Welsh language for beginners; a singing school to learn pronunciations for the hymns used in Sunday's Cymanfa and Cooking demonstrations to prepare the evening meal. There will also be displays set up and refreshments. There will also be some children's workshops capped off by a Noson Lawen, a "Merry Evening" of sharing our talents in a light-hearted celebration.

Sunday, May 5, will be the 81st State Cymanfa at 2:30 p.m. It will be directed by Mary Morris Mergenthal, from St. Paul, MN, and the organist is Steve Jensen of Milwaukee.

Room reservations must be made by the cut-off date of April 5, to receive the rate of $109.00. Please make your reservations at the:

The Rise and Fall of Taliesin I

Ron McCrea, author of Building Taliesin: Frank Lloyd Wright's Home of Love and Loss, describes in words and photographs the tragically brief career of Wright's original Wisconsin estate, from its conception in Italy in 1910 to its destruction in a fire and mass murder in 1914. Wright's love affair and creative companionship with Mamah Borthwick are central to the story.

Instructor: Ron McCrea is a Madison journalist who has written on Wright topics for 30 years while editing daily newspapers in Madison, New York, California, and Washington, D.C. His Taliesin book was honored as "The Find" by the Boston Sunday Globe. Thursdays, April 4-18, 7:30-8:45 pm; $38; #5725; Pyle Center, 702 Langdon Street; 0.4 CEU

A Taliesin Diary: My Parents and Frank Lloyd Wright

David and Priscilla Henken were part of the Taliesin Fellowship in 1942-43. Priscilla kept a detailed diary of Taliesin life, which was published in 2012. Their older daughter, Mariamne Whatley, will discuss events, issues, and the day-to-day activities documented in the diary. She will also discuss the Henkens' continuing relationship with Frank Lloyd Wright in the development of the community of Usonia in Pleasantville, New York.

Instructor: Mariamne Henken Whatley is professor emerita of Gender and Women's Studies and Curriculum and Instruction at UW-Madison. She has published extensively in women's health, sexuality, and health education. Her parents' experiences with Frank Lloyd Wright formed her ongoing interest in his work and legacy. Thursdays, April 25-May 2, 7:30-8:45 pm; $25; #5724; Pyle Center, 702 Langdon Street; 0.3 CEU

WELSH WEBSITE

Our Welsh Website has experienced some difficulty in the last months with its hosting site at Ripon College. We are in the process of getting and building a new website. Dr. Mary Williams Norton wondered what she would be doing with her time after she retired, now she knows! Thankfully she is spearheading this important project for us.

2013 Eisteddfod theme: Paper (Papur)Background and Rules for Eisteddfod Entries

To enhance and encourage an appreciation of Welsh culture and tradition, in 2009 an Eisteddfod competition and awarding of a chair was added to the activities of Trydedd Penwythnos Cymreig i Bawb (Third Welsh Weekend for Everyone) in Wisconsin. In 2009 and 2010 entries in the form of poetry were required. In 2011 the competition was broadened to include essays as well. Each year a theme is chosen. The basic rules for entries are these:

The call to bards for the Chair competition: Barddoniaeth neu Ysgrif/ Poetry or Essay;

Gwobr/Prize: Cadair yr Eisteddfod / Eisteddfod Chair

Pennill, neu gyfres o benillion, gyda chyfanswm o 50 o linellau (barddoniaeth) neu 750 o eiriau (ysgrif) , yn dilyn y testun sydd wedi cael ei ddewis: papur. Dylai'r gwaith fod â chyd-destun Cymreig. Croesewir gwaith yn y Gymraeg.

A stanza, or series of stanzas of less than 50 lines total (poetry) or 750 words or less (essay), following the chosen theme: paper. The work should have a Welsh theme or connection. Welsh language submissions are welcomed and encouraged.

The Chair competition is open to anyone. Entries must be handed in at the Welsh Weekend site no later than the designated time—this will be announced after afternoon registration is completed—on Saturday. Each entry must be submitted under a ffugenw (pen name) and not list the writer's actual name anywhere on the document. The winner will be called by ffugenw during the Noson Lawen/ Eisteddfod and awarded the Chair at that time with traditional pomp and ceremony!!

2013 Chair refinished and donated by Mary Williams-Norton. Pillow fabric from Angela Jones, Swansea University, Wales
